

Q And in the house I think there is still a gas stove--

A Gas stove, refrigerator and washing machine.

Q How would you want to sell them; what would be your thought in the disposition of those; would you want to sell them?

A Yes.

Q. How would you want to sell them?

A Well, I think we could sell the washing machine to a party but the stove and refrigerator we could just send to Ponton's to be sold.

MR. PRICE: I have another answer which I intended to file on behalf of her grandfather, including the requirement for authority to sell them at either private sale or through the commission auction at Ponton's. It may be that Mr. Horman will think it is advisable to leave them in the house to sell with the house. It just didn't seem worthwhile to have a separate appraisal.

THE COURT: The only thing there she says is the personal property of any value was taken to her home and her brother's.

MR. PRICE: Yes, that is included in the inventory which I have prepared for her.

THE COURT: You have prepared an inventory?

MR. PRICE: Yes, the value of the washing machine and range and the other items that are in the house, what would you estimate?

MISS SHOOK: About $100.

MR. PRICE: About $100.

THE COURT: What is the value of the other personal property?

MR. PRICE: The value of the items which are in the
